REGENT EDUCATION & RESEARCH FOUNDATION

Group of Institutions

On 20th September 2023, the Basic Science and Humanities Department of the Regent Education and Research Foundation Group of Institutions has organized a special program to explain the Student Code of Conduct to students. It is designed to foster a positive and productive educational environment, promoting personal growth and academic excellence. The program was led by Ms. Dipali Maity, the Senior Faculty of Basic Science and Humanities Department. She explained on the rules and regulations of the college, emphasizing the importance of adhering to the code of conduct to maintain a respectful and conducive learning environment.

The session covered detailed explanations of expected behavior, academic integrity, and student responsibilities. It outlines students' rights and responsibilities, emphasizing ethical behavior, academic integrity, and mutual respect. Active participation in academic and extracurricular activities, including seminars, workshops, and community service, is encouraged. Proper use of institutional resources, such as libraries and laboratories, is mandatory, and students should respect and care for these resources. Students are also encouraged to provide constructive feedback to improve the institution's programs and services, participating in surveys and feedback sessions.
